VALEMOUNT
Let the mountains inspire you

1 Canoe Mountain
13 km one-way, elevation gain 1,850 m (6,100 ft)
NOTE: The road has deteriorated and should only be accessed by ATVs and 4x4 Side-by-Side ATVs

Canoe Mountain is unique because it has an ATV road right to the top. This is the most popular way of accessing the mountain as it's a bit of a long haul to hike. Once at the end of the road system, short hikes can be done to see wildflowers, emerald green alpine lakes and wildlife. Whichever way you choose to get yourselves up there, the 360-degree panoramic view is hard to beat.

Trailhead Access: Travel south from Valemount on Hwy 5 for almost 15 km, and turn left into a small parking area at the base of the mountain. Start watching at 14.5 km for the turnoff as it is on a curve and can be easily missed.

2 Cranberry Marsh Loop
6 km loop, elevation gain minimal
NOTE: Marsh water is unsafe for drinking (even if filtered)

The Starratt Wildlife Sanctuary, locally known as Cranberry Marsh, offers a scenic 6-km loop with two viewing towers along the way. The main dike, which is only a couple hundred metres from the Best Western, has spectacular bird watching opportunities particularly in May and June. Another great bird viewing opportunity can be had from the north side of the marsh on the boardwalk section. This section is approximately 0.9 km long; one can continue around the trail from there or, if time is limited, just a quick walk in and back is still a nice option.

Trailhead Access (main trail): From Valemount travel south for 1.9 km to the Best Western. The parking lot for the marsh is in front of the hotel parallel to Hwy 5. You will see a sign marking the trailhead.

Trailhead Access (boardwalk): From Valemount's entrance sign travel down 5th Avenue for approx. 1 km to Ash Street and turn right, follow this street for 1.5 km to the cul-de-sac at the end of the road where there is a small parking area. The trail to the boardwalk is on the left.

3 Packsaddle Creek Loop
3 km one-way, (6 km loop), elevation gain: 150 m (500 ft)

The trail starts at a parking area at the 5-km mark on the Canoe forestry Rd, from there hike up the road for 370 m and watch on your left for the trailhead marker. The trail follows the south side of Packsaddle Creek for 2.2 km to a log crossing. While it does have a railing, some may not be comfortable using this crossing (an in-and-back hike is still a pleasant option). The loop continues for approximately 4 km back to the parking area.

4 Selwyn Traverse Trail
11 km one-way, elevation gain 150 m (500 ft)

The trail traverses a very nice bench land with several small creek crossings and some lovely mixed forests. Most people like to make this a one-way hike from the north end—as the elevation gain is considerably less from this direction. This means you will need two vehicles to allow for spotting one at the south end so you will have a means of fetching the vehicle you left at the 5-Mile Trailhead. The south end parking area is at the East and West Canoe Road junction on the left.

Trailhead Access (north end): Travel down 5th Avenue to the railway tracks, after crossing the tracks turn right and then take the first left onto Hillside Drive. Follow Hillside Drive for 1 km to a fork, take the right-hand fork and follow the forestry road (locally known as 5-Mile) for 2.3 km to the trailhead and a small parking area on the right-hand side of the road.

5 McKirdy Hut & Meadows Trail
6 km one-way, elevation gain 550 m (1,800 ft)

For those looking to get into the alpine, McKirdy Meadows is a great choice. In the summer of 2017 new switchbacks were constructed to avoid the trail's steep sections; this added 2 km to the trail to the alpine for a total length of almost 6 km. Once you reach the sub-alpine, watch for a sign which directs you to the meadows and the McKirdy Cabin; this cozy cabin was built and is maintained by the local outdoor club (Yellowhead Outdoor Recreation Association) and can be booked for overnight stays by calling 250.566.8244 (ask for Patricia). The more adventurous with some mountaineering experience can continue beyond the meadows to the summit; this is not a technical climb but it definitely involves some bouldering on the final approach. If the summit is beyond ones capabilities, the sub peak (which is marked with a large rock cairn and is locally known as Carson's Peak) is another great destination that also offers incredible views of the entire valley.

Trailhead Access (top of 5-Mile Road): Travel down 5th Ave to the railway tracks, after crossing the tracks turn right and then take the first left onto Hillside Drive. Follow Hillside Drive for 1 km to a fork, take the right-hand fork and follow the forestry road (locally known as 5-Mile) for 6 km to the trailhead and a parking area which are on the left-hand side of the road.

Lower Trailhead Access: Same access as original trailhead but just after the 5-km mark start watching for the lower trailhead (which is marked with a yellow and black hiker symbol) on your left. You will then see a small parking area to your right.

6 Swift Creek Viewpoint/Loop
10-km loop, elevation gain 200 m (650 ft)
NOTE: The biking trails intersect at various spots along the way, watch for the #6 markers, which will keep you on the main hiking trail

This 10-km loop starts by following Swift Creek for 1 km; the trail heads up for another .8 km to the viewpoint where you can enjoy great views in all directions. Continue through a mixed forest for another 2.5 km to a suspension bridge; once over the bridge, you will find yourself in an enchanted 300-year-old cedar forest. The trail continues through a mossy gully, which brings you to a biking trail; watch for trail markers that will indicate the direction to 5-Mile Road. On the south side of 5-Mile Road there is an off-road option (look for the hiker symbol); 5-Mile Road is very dusty during summer peak hours because it is used for shuttling bikers. Once at the bike park staging area you have the option of turning left (which is the longer way) onto Hillside Drive for 1 km, then right onto Main Street for 1.2 km back to the trailhead. Or you can turn right and follow the signs for a shorter option. This way takes the hiker by the water treatment plant to Larch Street, then to Juniper Street where you turn right. Follow Juniper Street for a short distance to where you will see the Golden Years Lodge on your right, which is adjacent to the trailhead.

Trailhead Access: Travel down 5th Ave to the railway tracks; after crossing the tracks, turn left onto Main Street and follow for 1 km. Parking is available on the west side of the road, just before the bridge (across from the Golden Years Lodge). The trail starts immediately after the bridge on the right.

14 Mount Trudeau Trail
3.2 km one-way, elevation gain 366 m (1,200 ft)
NOTE: To see the most current status update on this trail, please inquire at the Valemount Visitor Centre or check the trails website: ValemountTrails.com

The trail starts gently and then after a log creek crossing it's a steady climb into the sub-alpine (which has some very wet sections for most of the year). At the end of the sub-alpine just before the waterfall there is a nice lunch spot beside a lovely little lake. If you're brave enough, you can take a dip in this little swimming hole. Experienced hikers can continue up a steep headwall to the upper basin where there are several emerald-hued alpine lakes.

Trailhead Access: From Valemount travel south on Hwy 5 for 3.5 km, then turn right off the highway and keep left staying on the main gravel road. At 1 km take the right fork and follow this road for another kilometre to where you'll see the BC Hydro substation on your left and the Westridge Forestry Rd on your right. Travel down this forestry road—high clearance 4x4 vehicle is recommended—for almost 15 km to the trailhead, which is on your left.

8 Mount Terry Fox Trail
9 km one-way, elevation gain 1,740 m (5,700 ft)
NOTE: There is no water along this trail until a small lake in the alpine (approx. 5-hour climb to the lake)

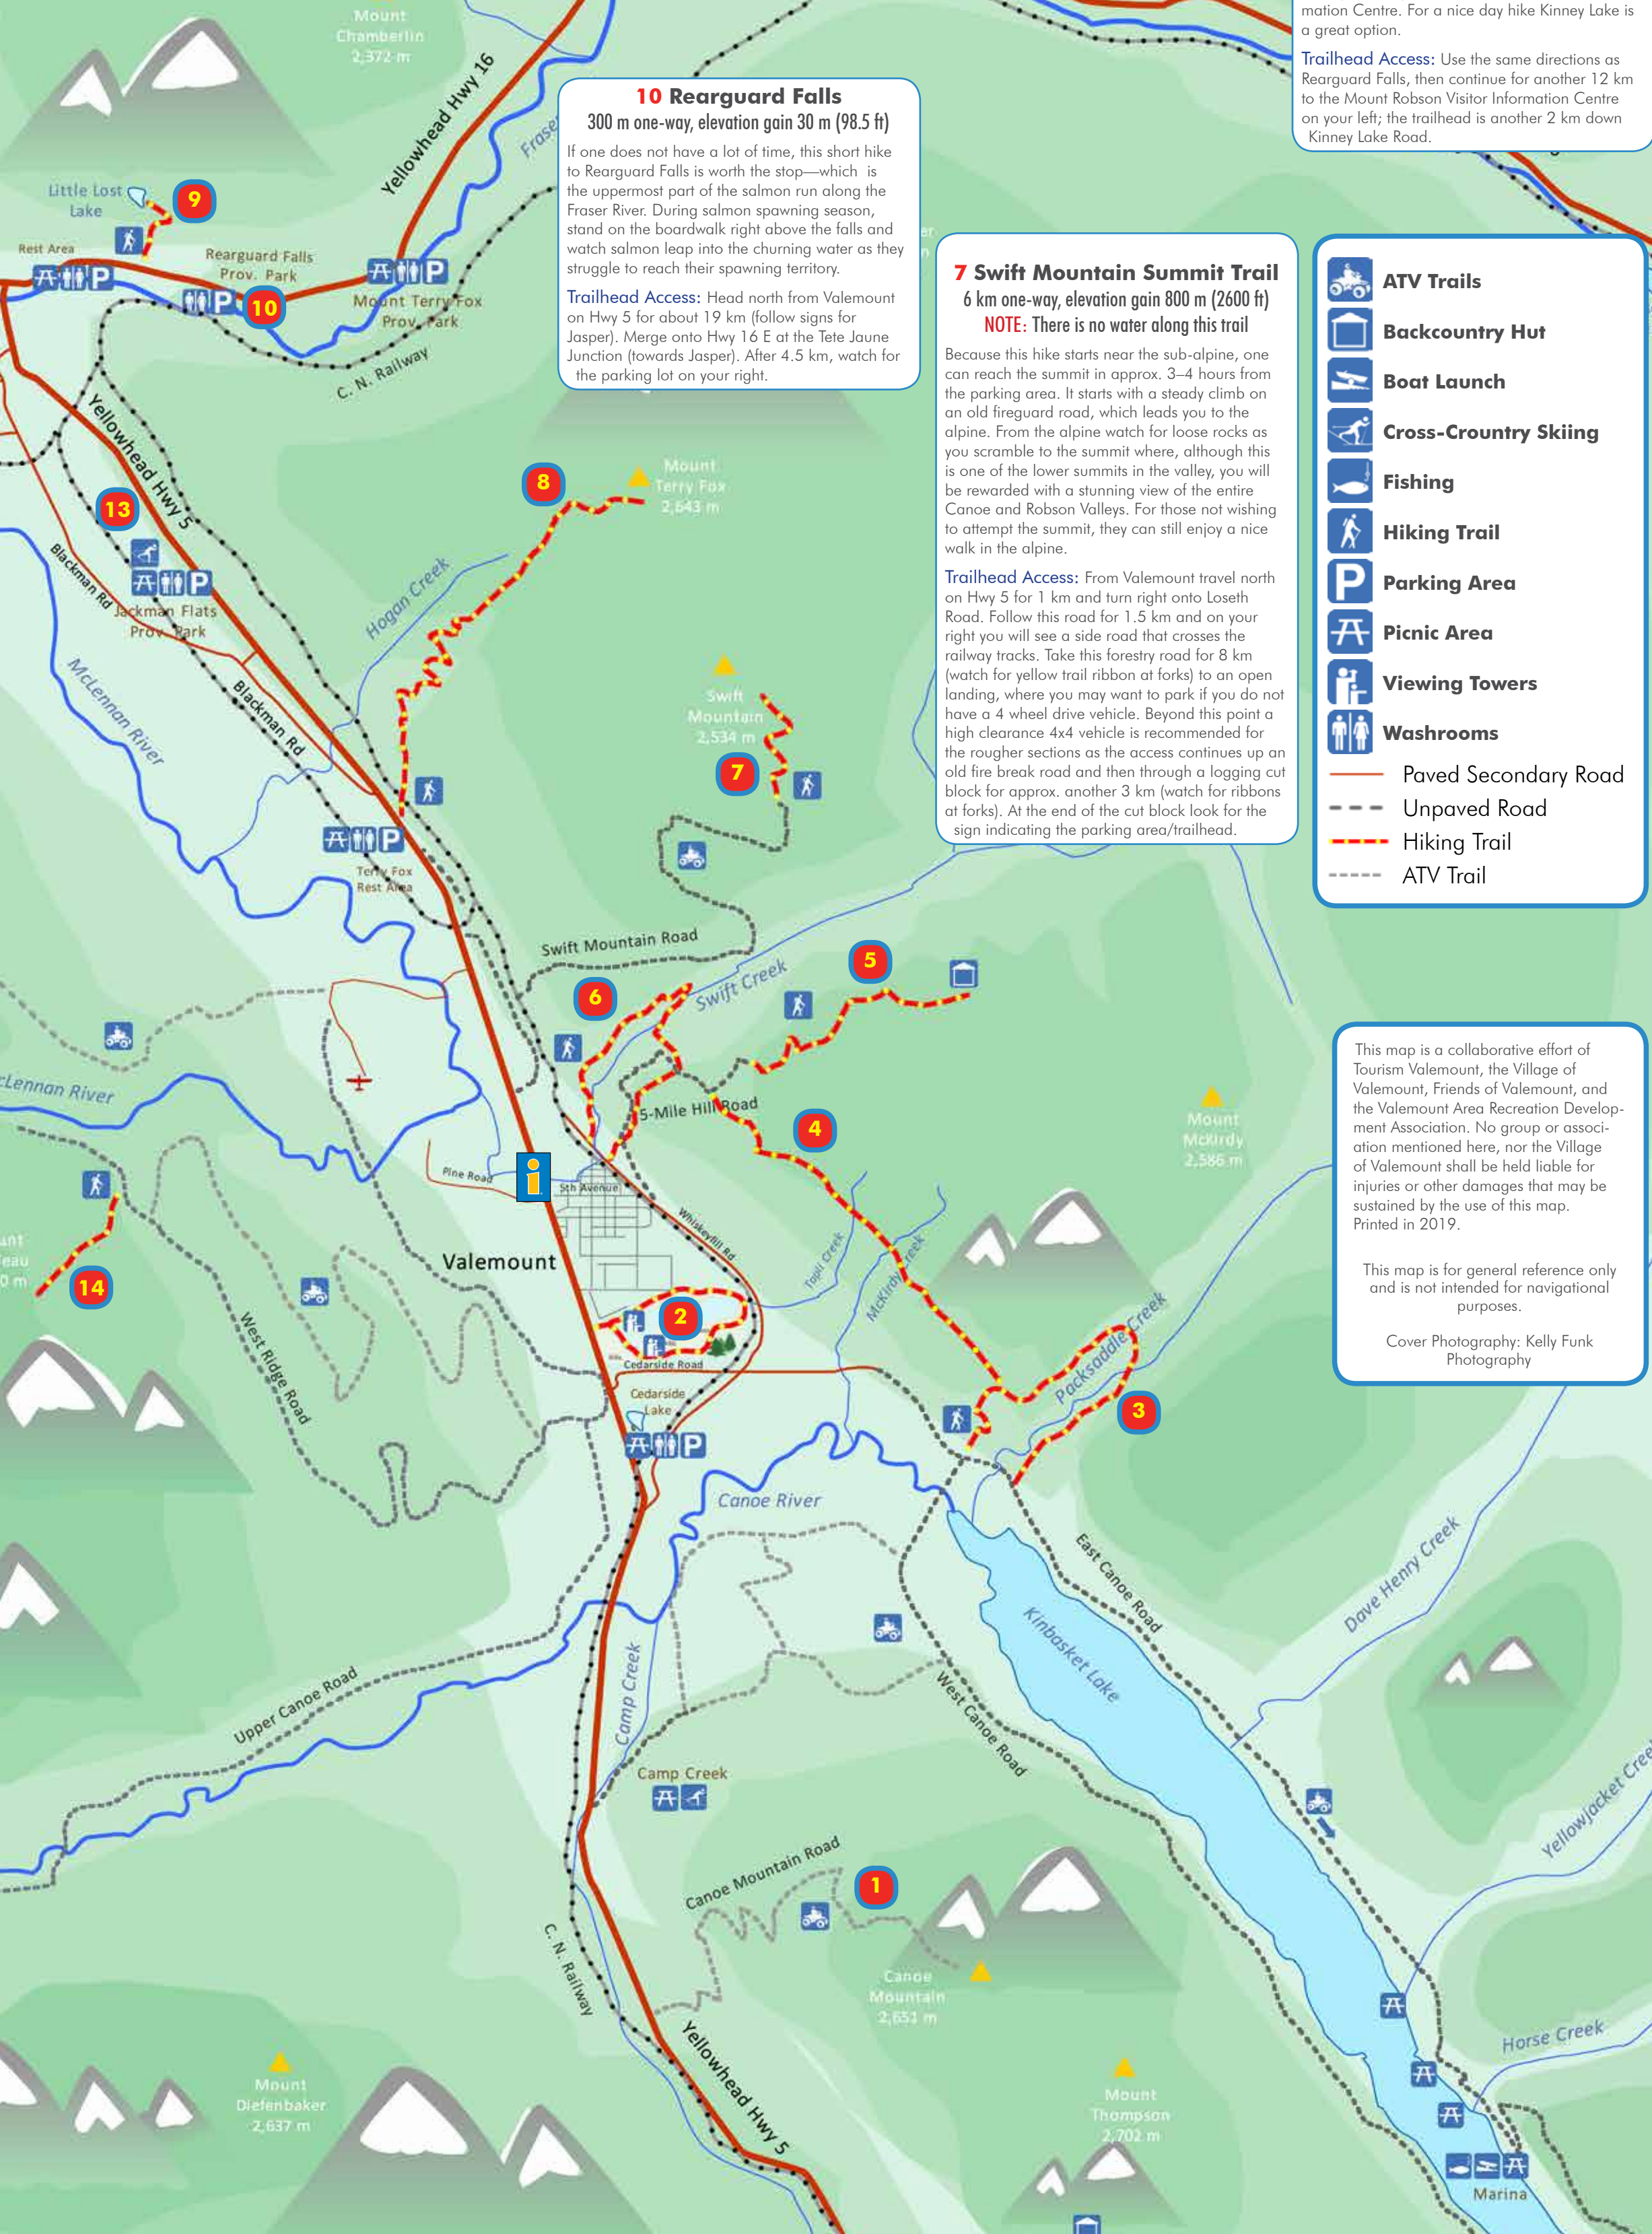

This is one of the longest hikes in the valley. The trail starts with 17 switchbacks of varying lengths which climb steadily to the tree line. Above the tree line, watch for cairns marking the way over a rocky knoll from where you'll see the radio tower on the ridge above. Once on the lower ridge, you will have a great view of Mount Robson. The long flat topped ridge across the alpine basin towards Mount Robson is the site of a monument commemorating Terry Fox. From the lower ridge there are a couple of false summits between you and the true summit of Mount Terry Fox, which is still almost 2 km away but worth the effort for the incredible view you will have of the Canoe and Robson Valleys.

Trailhead Access: From Valemount travel north on Hwy 5 for 6 km to the Terry Fox rest area on your left (this is not the trailhead). There you'll see a beautiful hand-painted sign that gives you a good idea of the trail details from a bird's eye view. To access the trailhead from the rest area, head back towards Valemount (south) on Hwy 5 and almost immediately turn left onto Stone Road and then left again onto Tinsley Road. Follow this road for 400 m to the railroad tracks, after crossing the tracks turn left and take the second right fork which brings you to the parking area.

785 Cranberry Lake Road

10 Rearguard Falls
300 m one-way, elevation gain 30 m (98.5 ft)

If one does not have a lot of time, this short hike to Rearguard Falls is worth the stop—which is the uppermost part of the salmon run along the Fraser River. During salmon spawning season, stand on the boardwalk right above the falls and watch salmon leap into the churning water as they struggle to reach their spawning territory.

Trailhead Access: Head north from Valemount on Hwy 5 for about 19 km (follow signs for Jasper). Merge onto Hwy 16 E at the Tete Jaune Junction (towards Jasper). After 4.5 km, watch for the parking lot on your right.

7 Swift Mountain Summit Trail
6 km one-way, elevation gain 800 m (2600 ft)
NOTE: There is no water along this trail

Because this hike starts near the sub-alpine, one can reach the summit in approx. 3-4 hours from the parking area. It starts with a steady climb on an old fireguard road, which leads you to the alpine. From the alpine, watch for loose rocks as you scramble to the summit where, although this is one of the lower summits in the valley, you will be rewarded with a stunning view of the entire Canoe and Robson Valleys. For those not wishing to attempt the summit, they can still enjoy a nice walk in the alpine.

Trailhead Access: From Valemount travel north on Hwy 5 for 1 km and turn right onto Loseth Road. Follow this road for 1.5 km and on your right you will see a side road that crosses the railway tracks. Take this forestry road for 8 km (watch for yellow trail ribbon at forks) to an open landing, where you may want to park if you do not have a 4 wheel drive vehicle. Beyond this point a high clearance 4x4 vehicle is recommended for the rougher sections as the access continues up an old fire break road and then through a logging cut block for approx. another 3 km (watch for ribbons at forks). At the end of the cut block look for the sign indicating the parking area/trailhead.

11 Mount Robson Berg Lake Trail
23 km one-way, elevation gain 790 m (2,592 ft)
NOTE: If you are planning an overnight stay you must pre-book your campsite with DiscoverCamping.ca.

The Berg Lake Trail is a world-renowned backcountry hiking trail, taking hikers to some of the best scenery in the province. For the full trail description inquire with the Mount Robson Information Centre. For a nice day hike Kinney Lake is a great option.

Trailhead Access: Use the same directions as Rearguard Falls, then continue for another 12 km to the Mount Robson Visitor Information Centre on your left; the trailhead is another 2 km down Kinney Lake Road.

9 Little Lost Lake
1.7 km one-way, elevation gain 120 m (400 ft)

This 1.7 km one-way trail starts with some uphill sections, then levels out for the last half of the hike and ends at a lovely picnic spot by the lake. For those looking for a little more, they can walk around the lake or explore some of the branches that take off from the main trail.

Trailhead Access: From Valemount travel north on Hwy 5 to the Hwy 16 junction and then travel east towards Jasper for 1.5 km. Park at the pull-out just after the weigh scales. From the pull-out cross the highway and go west for approx. 100 m and on your right you will see the brown forestry sign, which marks the trailhead.

12 Mica Mine Trail
4.5 km one-way, elevation gain 850 m (2,800 ft)

The trail begins by following an old grown in skid road for approx. 2 km, and then branches off to your left. It is a steady climb to the tree line, and then a traverse across an east facing slope brings you to the old mine site. You can still see some of the beautiful opalescent mica flakes on the trail just before the mine. If one still has some energy after getting to the mine, the hike up to the ridge above is well worth the effort for its great view of the Premier Range to the west.

Trailhead Access: From Valemount travel north on Hwy 5 for about 7.5 km and then turn left onto Blackman Road, and follow it for almost 10 km to Old Tete Jaune Road. Turn left and travel for 2 km to Sand Creek Forestry Road on your left. Drive along this forestry road for 8 km to where you will see an open parking area on the left. The trailhead sign is on the right hand side of the road.

13 Jackman Flats
1.4 km–6.2 km loops, rolling terrain
NOTE: There is no water along this trail

This area offers gentle hikes with great views of the surrounding mountains, and is popular for cross-country skiing in the winter. The park has a unique ecosystem with rare plant communities and shifting sand dune structures. A park map can be found at BcParks.ca and at the trailhead.

Trailhead Access: From Valemount travel north on Hwy 5 for 13 km. Turn left into the parking area where you'll find a sign displaying the various trail options.
